Dedication

Jerome T. McCamley

We, the class of 1961, wish with pride and pleasure to dedicate this, our yearbook, to Mr. Jerome T. McCamley.

Mr. McCamley, a graduate of Duquesne University with a B.Ed., has taught Junior and Senior English in our school for ten years. He has served faithfully as Senior Class Advisor and has been enthusiastic in many other extra-curricular activities. His countless hours of work as sponsor of the yearbook has made it the success it is today.

His genial personality and fine sense of humor make him a favorite of all that know him.

We now want to wish him continued success in his work and want him to know that by this dedication we are saying thank you for all he has done for us.

ADMINISTRATION '61

L. ROSS

FRANK E. EHRENFELD, B.S., M.S.
Supervising Principal

Congratulations to the members of the "Class of 1961" as you are about to launch another milestone in your history. You have met and conquered the problems that have brought you to this highlight in your lives—graduation. May the fortitude and courage you have displayed ever be present to help you achieve and reach whatever goals are ahead.

Your parents, teachers and friends will always rejoice in your accomplishments. The understanding of the past and the hopes of the future will merit your vigilance in reaching a happy and worthwhile life.

M. S. HANCOCK, A.B., M.Ed.
Senior High School Principal

In this age of scientific miracles a high school education assumes a newer significance and a more profound challenge to the youth of today, a future which tells them that all things are possible if they are genuinely interested in whatever they undertake, set a goal for success and meet it with sincerity of purpose, diligence, sacrifice, and the will to win.

We cannot all be scientists, great mathematicians or machinists, but we can all make some worthwhile contribution to the world in which we live. No matter how crowded the field seems to be, not all the places have been taken, there is still opportunity for you. No matter how much you may feel that you have reached the limit of your ability, you have reserve strength for a further climb. Getting to the top is a tough assignment; staying there is tougher, but it is possible for you to meet the challenges of this new era if you have a solid foundation of good education and use it wisely.

The future of our country is in your hands; from your group will come the leaders of tomorrow. We, as your instructors, feel that you are capable of being good leaders, each in your own field of endeavor if you will but use the ability with which you are endowed. Believe in your ability, set your goal, work hard to meet that goal, be honest in your dealings with all men and success will come to you.

To this I add my personal congratulations and good wishes to all of you, the "Class of 1961."

EDWARD J. GRUNDY, B.S., M.Ed.
Director of Curricula

Congratulations. You have been successfully launched from one educational platform. We are hopeful that we have played a part in the mechanics of your preparation. If you hope to complete the journey and succeed in attaining a height of success, you must strive through each new phase of life with the enthusiasm needed to conquer the great unknown which lies ahead.

You are the satellites of tomorrow. Will you falter before your goal is reached, will you rise to each occasion and complete your orbit?

All-Class Play

"Around The World In Eighty Days"

Certainly one of the most enjoyable plays we have ever done, "Around the World in Eighty Days," our Fall All-Class Play, also presented quite a challenge to both the actors and the technical crews.

Once again we departed from "normal" staging and, this time, incorporated three very old types of stage devices—Elizabethan (bare stage with suggestive props and the use of scene signs); Chinese style property "men" to make the necessary scene changes as we circled the globe; and the Greek theatre chorus and narrator style. To really make these work, first-rate costuming and lighting were a must, not to mention excellent acting!

The story concerns Phileas Fogg, a somewhat stuffy but decidedly wealthy Englishman, and his wager with his friends at the Reform Club that "in excitingly modern 1872 it is entirely possible to go around the world in no more than 80 days!" Accompanied by his faithful, somewhat excitable French valet, Passepartout, Fogg is off. And what a merry race it is!

All who saw the play will long remember lovable Passapartout; the incomparable and exasperating detective, Mr. Fix and his determined wife, Myra; the exotic Madame Aouda who finally melted the "stone-cold" Fogg; the eerie jungle scene; and, of course, the exciting scene in America when the train was attacked by Indians.

Final curtain call on November 18 showed an enthusiastic audience and a very much pleased cast and crew!

"You Can't Take It With You"

On March 2 and 3 one of the zaniest comedies ever to hit P.O. was presented to a most appreciative audience. The play was "You Can't Take It With You," a popular Broadway hit by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman.

You've no doubt heard people philosophically, and somewhat wistfully, say, "You can't take it with you." Well, Grandpa Vanderhof doesn't want to take it with him. He wants to enjoy life to its fullest. Forty-four years ago Grandpa left his business so he would have more time to collect snakes, visit the zoo, go to Commencements, and practice throwing darts. Although you may think this strange, to Grandpa it is the way to get the most out of life. As a matter of fact, his house is filled with people, both relatives and friends, who have the very same philosophy.

Penny, Grandpa's daughter, writes plays because eight years ago she received a typewriter by mistake. Penny's daughter, Essie, takes ballet lessons. Ed, Essie's husband, plays the xylophone, operates a printing press, and sells candy that Essie makes. Paul, Penny's husband, and Mr. DePinna, an ex-ice man, manufacture fireworks in the basement. Essie's very Russian and very incompetent dance instructor, Mr. Kolenkhov, always shows up in time for dinner. Rheba, the maid, and her boyfriend, Donald, complete the set to make up one of the craziest groups ever to inhabit one household.

Being a member of such a family could be most enjoyable, unless your name happens to be Alice and you are planning to marry the son of a very wealthy and conventional businessman. Such is the problem of Alice Sycamore, who is afraid the Kirby's don't understand (especially after coming to dinner and ending up in jail), and they try to separate Tony and Alice. However, through the workings of Grandpa, human nature and fate, Alice and Tony are able to smooth things out, and Mr. and Mrs. Kirby become "regular people."

Everyone lives happily ever after, including the cast, the crews, and the delighted audience—all quite convinced that "You Can't Take It With You."

"Stage Door"

"Stage Door," a Broadway success by Edna Ferber and George S. Kaufman, was presented on April 13 and 14 by our Drama Department. This show, our serious play for the year, was well received by our student body and community.

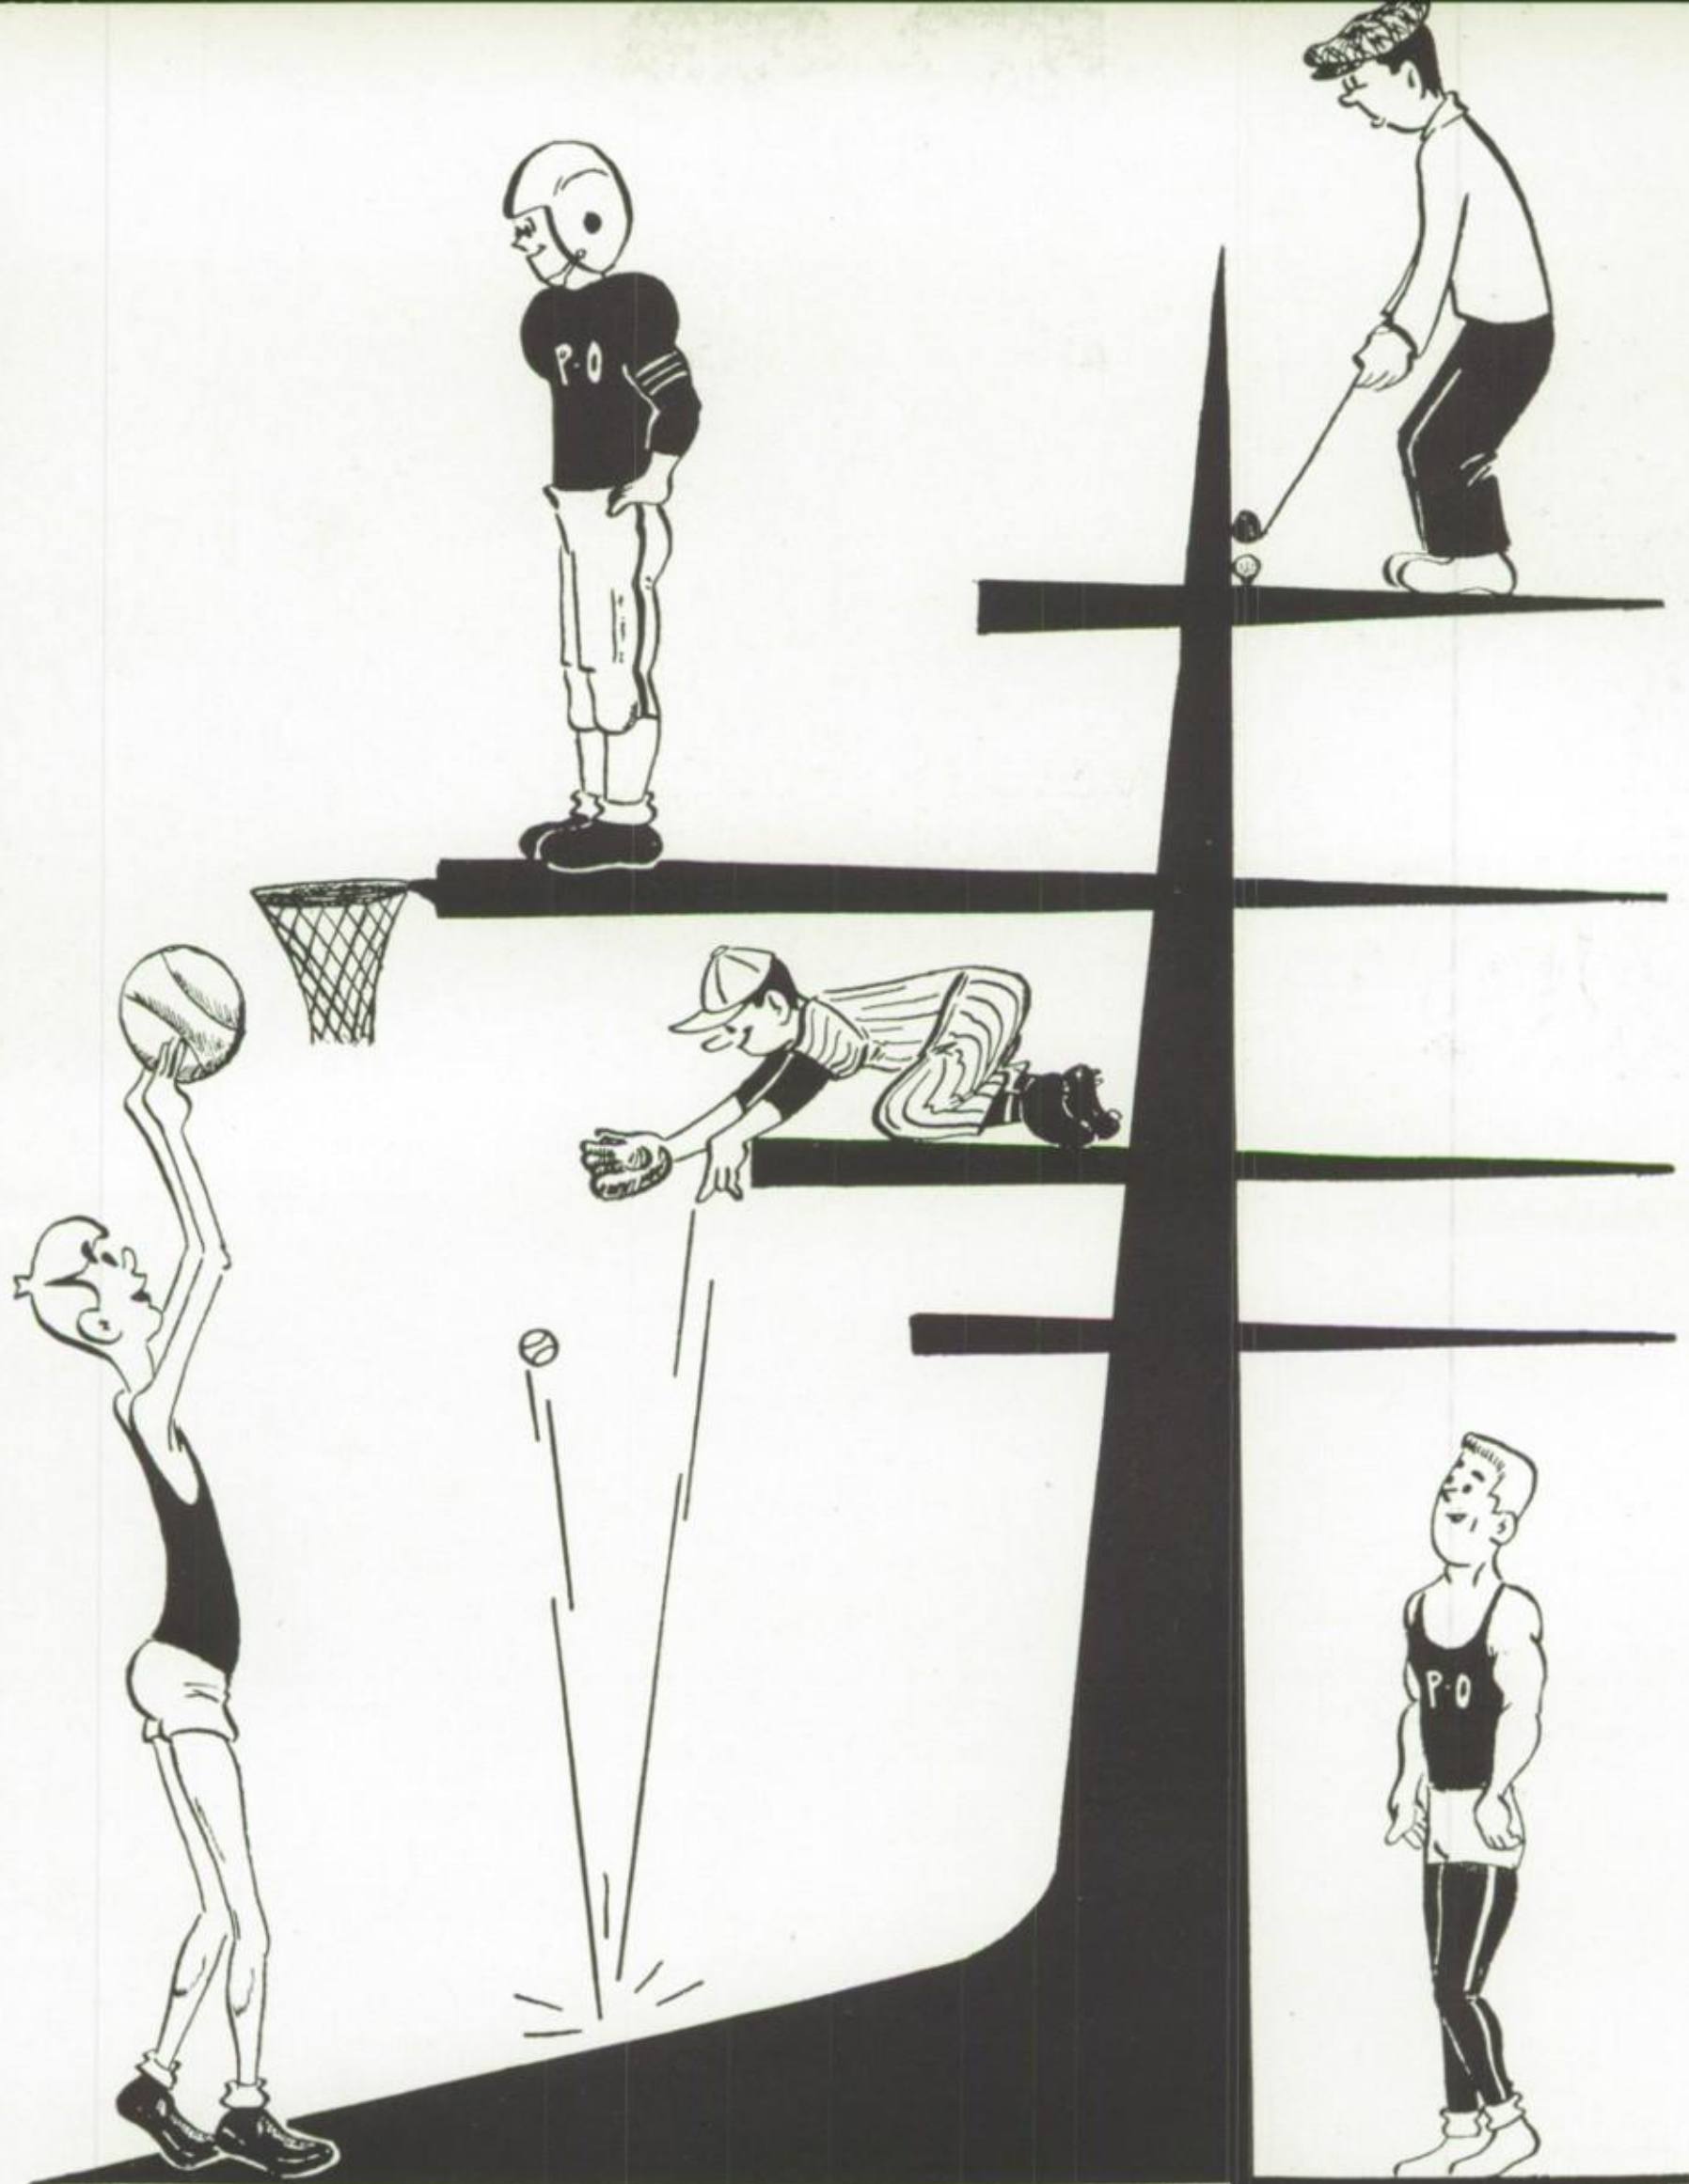

The plot concerns a group of young girls who have come to New York to study acting and make their mark in the hectic world of the theatre. The scene is Mrs. Orcutt's boarding house where the humor and heartbreak, disappointments and disillusionment, triumphs and tragedies of sixteen young women are revealed in contrasting scenes of entertaining comedy and stark despair. We find Big Mary and Little Mary, our humorous female Mutt and Jeff; glamorous Jean, who may not be much of an actress but who becomes a famous movie star; Louise, who admits defeat and chooses marriage; Kaye, who has had all the disappointments she can take and who finally takes her own life; Mrs. Orcutt, a has-been, and many others.

But our story centers around courageous and determined Terry Randall, who refuses to give up. After several years of bit parts, closed shows, "camping" in casting offices, and selling blouses at Macy's, Terry, with the help of idealistic David Kingsley, finally achieves a place in the theatre world where we are sure she will at last conquer.

Through our final play, the large cast, the crew members and the audience learned that the "Stage Door" swings open for a very few and then only to those who have courage as well as talent.
